BROTHERHOOD CHIEFS DISCUSS PLANS FOR "LITTLE PEACE CONFERENCE"

Labor Board Meets To Prepare Way For Strike Settlement--War Council Discusses Union Plans

"War Council" Of Unions Meets Informally To Discuss Peace
EXPLAIN PROMPT CALL ACCEPTANCE
Willing To Go Wherever There Is Possibility Of Settlement

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 19.—The War Council of the railway brotherhood chiefs met informally here today to discuss plans for the "little peace conference" at Chicago tomorrow, preparatory to leaving for that city to confer with members of the United States Railway Labor Board, in a final effort to avoid the nation-wide transportation strike scheduled to begin October 30th.

TALK OVER SITUATION
The union leaders talked over the situation, particularly with reference to the new conditions brought about by the Board's decision to allow the railroads to employ strike breakers in the event of a strike.

Explaining their prompt acceptance of the invitation to the Chicago conference, W. G. Lee said: "I will go wherever there is the remotest possibility of settlement. I have the welfare of 150,000 members of my organization and their families to consider."

When Samuels' attention was directed to the fact that certain railroads are planning to employ strike breakers in the event of a strike, he declared:

Rail Labor Board Goes In Session Today To Complete Proposal
GOVERNMENT TO BACK UP BOARD
Will Put Teeth In The Transportation Act If It Is Necessary

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 19.—The United States Railway Labor Board, now peacemakers "with a club," planned their truce between the railroad employee and rail executives today.

Carry President's Message
The three board members representing the railroads and the three representing the employees, who were prepared to strike October 30th, met with the public members to whom they were to carry the President's message.

Out of this session will come the complete proposition that the board has to offer to the chiefs of the four brotherhoods, who have been summoned for a conference here Thursday afternoon.

Get Will Back Board
The government has let it be known that the Board will be backed to the limit and that means to enforce its mediation decree will be found. This is one of the clubs the board has to offer to the chiefs of the four brotherhoods, who have been summoned for a conference here Thursday afternoon.

Board's Probable Demands
To see it was understood today from reliable sources, would be some of the demands made of the union by the board.

First: Immediate suspension of the strike order of the brotherhood.
Second: Request to the leaders of the American Federation of Labor and other unions, to hold up their strike decision for the present.

Demands to be made of the railway executives, with a view toward bringing about a truce.
First: Immediate transition of the 12 per cent wage cut imposed last July, which meant a $400,000,000 saving for the roads into reduced freight rates.

Armistice Day May Also See Peace Proclamation

Suggestion Made That President Make Formal Peace Nov. 11th

(By United Press)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—President Harding may proclaim that the United States is officially at peace with the Central Powers on Armistice Day, November 11th.

Formal peace between the countries became a virtual fact when the Senate last night ratified the Harding peace treaties with Germany, Austria, and Hungary by a vote of 85 to 10. The four countries will now formally exchange ratifications, after which a peace will be officially proclaimed. As these steps will require from two to three weeks, the suggestion has been made that it would be appropriate for the President to issue his peace proclamation on the third anniversary of the signing of the Armistice and the opening of the first session of the League of Nations.

Exchange of ratification would remove the last technical barrier to the resumption of commercial relations between the two countries.

NATION'S MOTOR CARS READY FOR MOBILIZATION

Ten Million Trucks And Passenger Cars Available For Strike

AUTOMOBILE LISTS BEING PREPARED

Auto Club Officials See Death Knell Of Short Rail Freight Haul

New York, Oct. 19.—The nation's fleet of 10,000,000 motor cars is being prepared for mobilization to transport food and passengers in case of a general strike. Lists of all trucks and passenger cars throughout the country are being prepared for national, state and civic authorities so that they may be taken over in case of emergency.

Government Has Power to Seize Cars
"The Government could be empowered to seize all these vehicles in time of dire necessity," F. W. Fenn, secretary of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, told the United Press today. "If all the rail workers go out on a general strike, we will make preparations to help the government take over all available trucks and passenger cars."

There are approximately one million trucks and nine million passenger cars available for service. "We look for these to break up the tie in this country just as they did in Ireland," Fenn declared.

There are 10,000 freight trucks operating between cities in the United States. These can be expanded to handle triple the amount of freight now carried, in case of a strike.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

"By Skinny"

Mrs. Elizabeth M. East was a patient in the Polytechnic Hospital in New York recently and when a large class of young embryo doctors visited the hospital her physician, Dr. Charles G. Child loaded the sick woman up on a perambulator and wheeling her into the presence of the youngsters in search of medical lore, proceeded to demonstrate her ailment to those assembled. Although too sick to protest Mrs. East was so humiliated by her experience that she is suing the doctor for $25,000, with which to soothe her injured feelings.

Marriages for 1921 will be more than one million more than in any other one year in our country's history. When Dean Swift decided to attempt to journey on the matrimonial sea he sent his inamorata, Miss Waring, the following proposal:

"Are you in a condition to manage domestic affairs with an income of less than three hundred pounds a year? Will you be ready to engage in those methods I shall direct for the improvement of your mind, so as to make us entertaining company for each other, without being miserable when we are neither visiting nor being visited? Chastity in person and competence in fortune are all I look for. I singled you out at first from the rest of women, and I expect not to be used as a common lover." The lady declined with thanks.

Charlie Chaplin, the famous film comedian, has returned to America after a visit to his home in London. It was the "funny fellow's" first trip "back home" in ten years and he was winned and dined like a real conquering hero. During his brief stay at a London hotel he received no less than 58,000 letters from admirers of both sexes and was compelled to employ a force of six stenographers to answer his correspondence. While 15,000 different books were sent to his quarters for the film star's autograph. So much for fame.

Women are openly buying husbands in France and advertising in newspapers to get good bargains. The dearth of marriageable men in France, following the war, has forced the surplus million of unmarried girls and women here to realize that they must offer something more than beauty, faithfulness and affection in the keen competition of the marriage market. All kinds of inducements are being offered. Here are samples of some of the ads:

"YOUNG GIRL, pretty, graceful, good figure, blond, good education, seeks handsome husband, to whom a DOP of 50,000 francs would be inducement."

"I HAVE 100,000 FRANCS but no husband: war widow, affectionate, caressing, domesticated, good cook. Madam P—"

"SIX THOUSAND FRANCS AND LIMOUSINE goes to man willing to marry young girl, good education, having house in Paris and country. Commerce preferred."

"WIDOW WITH PROSPEROUS CAFE and 25,000 francs seeks loyal, handsome, man of world as husband. Must be unmarried. Beard preferred."

"WIDOW WITH LARGE FLAT, in best district, splendidly furnished, homelike, bath, hot and cold water, central heating, elevator. WOULD MARRY well educated person of affectionate disposition."

This ad brought no less than 8,000 replies.

A Hallowe'en Warning

For some time past the boys of the town have been cutting up Hallowe'en pranks and raising the dickens generally in different sections of town, causing much annoyance to citizens and the police department as well. So to put a stop to this sort of thing and curb the hoodlums, taking advantage of the pranks of the little folks, strict orders have been issued to the police to arrest every boy or girl engaging in Hallowe'en horse play at this time.

A little leeway, in reason, will be allowed the kids the last two nights of the month but they must wait until that time. Parents will save trouble by impressing this warning on their children, as in every case where arrests are made the parents will be asked to pay the fine.

RUSSIAN CHILDREN DOOMED TO DEATH DESPITE ALL AID

Famine Spectre Hovers Over Country Districts. Govt. Cannot Give People Food

By John Graudenz

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Moscow. (By Mail) —Despite all help coming from America, at least 25 per cent of the children within the famine region are doomed to death. The people who probably will die during this winter of starvation may be estimated at one million and a half to two million. The percentage of the dying will be greater the farther one goes into the country, while the children near the cities will be easier reached through the American Relief Work.

The government being aware of this is trying to evacuate the nearer to the cities. The mothers don't protest if the children are taken away from them as they rather save their children and die themselves.

When the Volga freezes there will be thousands dying without being heard of.

Cannot Give Them Food

Their terrible outlook is, despite the fact that Soviet Russia takes all the care possible of her children. The only thing they need is what the Soviet cannot give them—food.

All the villas and palaces of former wealthy class are filled with the happy youngsters with their deep fatalistic Russian eyes. Whatever there may be available in Russia in way of food, clothing and other things which make the life of a child worth while living is given to them. "Children first" is the slogan of everyone in Moscow there are hundreds of children's homes, where the kids not only are being fed, but also educated. All these children are able to sing the "Internationale" and other revolutionary songs. Soviet Russia is raising a communistic generation.

Established Children's Home

Children's homes are being established all over the country, even in the smallest cities. When I visited the city of Samara, I saw a children's colony of about 50 houses along the banks of the Volga, where formerly the wealthy people spent the summer. All of these children looked happy, bright-eyed and healthy.

Even at the city of Stavropol, of 100,000 inhabitants, there were six children's homes, besides one hospital for the children. This hospital, however, was filled with malaria and dysentery patients, caused by the lack of food. If American mothers and children could only have seen the sad dog-like eyes with which the children followed us when they heard we had come to investigate what American children could do for them.

"Tell American children we will never forget what they will do for us and if we are grown up, we will perhaps tell them personally," one child said. The fact that there was no tears made the situation the more pitiful. It lies in the Russian character to endure without complaining. He is a fatalist.

I had headaches, too. I find that Doan's Kidney Pills relieve this condition and free me of the backache and headaches. THREE FIRE TOWERS BUILT THIS YEAR

Washington, Oct. 19.—Three steel forest fire observation towers have been erected in the Moshannon State Forest by the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry. Cabins, for the watchman on duty, have also been constructed at the bases of the towers. Telephone lines have been run to each tower, connecting with the District Forester's headquarters in Clearfield.

One Tower at Smith Place

One tower is at the Smith Place, and it overlooks the greater part of seven townships. Another tower at the Knobs enables the observer to detect forest fires throughout the northeastern part of the county, as well as some territory in Elk, Cameron and Centre counties. The third tower is at the Summit, providing views of southern Clearfield, northern Cambria and southwestern Centre counties.

District Forester Dague, of Clearfield, has announced that these towers are open to the public at all times. A fourth tower will be put up at Snow Shoe.

Rush Road Construction

Road construction is being rushed this fall in Forester Dague's territory. It has been held up for some weeks by the work on fire towers, telephone lines and cabins. These have now been completed.

The Medix Grade road, extending from Medix Run for nine miles to the mines at Caledonia Pike, has been finished. The new road occupies the old road bed, has a good grade and a satisfactory foundation.

SECOND JUDGMENT SOBER

The present shake-up in Prohibition enforcement circles is attributable to just one thing, and that one thing is the awakening of the people of the United States to the fact that the Eighteenth Amendment is now a part of the Constitution of the United States of America, and, with the Volstead Enforcement Act, a part of the fundamental law of the nation, which should and must be enforced and respected by all good citizens.

Time was when there was more or less divided sentiment on the subject of the enforcement of the dry law, but that time is rapidly receding into the past and very many of those, who started to scoff and ridicule the efforts of those officers of the law who saw their duty clearly and were prompt to act, now remain to say amen to every effort to enforce the prohibition law and want those who favor the law given opportunity to enforce it.

The best evidence of this change of sentiment among those who first believed the "dry act" was not what it should be, is contained in the following editorial taken from the Philadelphia Public Ledger of Sunday, October 9th, which is in part prophetic of the shake-up that has since occurred in the State Enforcement Bureau:

PROHIBITION TROUBLES

AUTHORITATIVE advices from Washington made evident that there is likely to be an upheaval in the system of Federal prohibition enforcement as it is administered in Pennsylvania. It appears that a confidential agent of Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has been investigating conditions in this state, and has returned to report that conditions have reached such a state it would be impossible to weed out the corruption in the system, thus leading countenance to the unconfirmed rumor that his report was the whole personal from Director Williams C. McConnell down, should be cleared out. Mr. McConnell is under fire from another source also, an attack having been made on his eligibility to serve as a Federal official, on the ground that he retains his membership in the Pennsylvania State Senate. The status of the matter now is that a "flying squadron" has been ordered into the State from Washington to make confidential investigations for Mr. Haynes, with the assumption that if they confirm the findings of the first investigator there will be an entirely "new deal" for prohibition enforcement in this State.

This matter of enforcement of the prohibition enforcement will at no very distant date take its place as one of the great national problems. As a matter of fact, it is that very thing today. But our people are sometimes easy-going in their consideration of public affairs and they have not yet chosen to take stock of this particular issue and realize the tremendous possibilities in many directions that are tied up with it. Possibly that is because it is comparatively new. Some day it will not be so new, how ever and the time will come inevitably when the public will be forced to a realization of the far-reaching influences and consequences that inhere in national prohibition enforcement.

So far as Pennsylvania is concerned therefore, it would be well if she could clear her decks in anticipation of the day of reckoning. The first step in that direction will be to divorce her enforcement system of the active influence of politics. As soon as the Volstead act was passed it was realized by those who were in practical touch with politics that prohibition enforcement possessed high potentialities as an instrument of political power. That forecast. In the modern technique of practical politics, manipulation of the enforcement system has taken the place of some of the old weapons which have been forced into the discard. Prohibition enforcement is in politics, and in with both feet.

From that viewpoint the service of Senator McConnell as Director for Pennsylvania very advantageously could be dispensed with. He is an active politician, one of the leaders of the organization in the county from which he hails and not without influence in the councils of the Republican State Organization. Under his politicians have been appointed to responsible positions on the recommendations of political leaders. There is no warrant for connecting Senator McConnell with any of the corruption alleged to have been found. Nor is it fair to him to fail to take cognizance of the fact that he has for only a short time been at the head of the system which he inherited from a predecessor. In spite of anything that may be said in extenuation of charges that may later be made against the Pennsylvania enforcement system, however, the fact remains, and it is the fundamental fact, that with an active organization politician who reasonably may be credited with a specific political purpose at the head of a bureau whose value for political purpose is well established there can be no public satisfaction with the results to be attained.

If the wholesale clearing that is rumored should take place and the directorship be vacated, the next incumbent must be a man who has no connection with politics. It would be wise for the Republican State organization of Pennsylvania to take that viewpoint, too for then its skirts would be clear in the grand days that are surely coming. In fact, those who want to go one step further than a mere insistence against politics in enforcement would argue that it would be the logical and sensible thing from all viewpoints to put in as Director an avowed and accepted exponent of prohibition sentiment

Such an appointment would settle a good many questions. For instance there is a question whether prohibition can ever be thoroughly enforced. The most trustworthy answer to that would be furnished by putting a tried-and-tested "dry" in office. If he couldn't enforce it, it would have to be admitted that no one could. If he succeeded in enforcing it, on the other hand, that would go far toward settling another question: Does the country want the Volstead act as it now stands? The best test of a law is its strict enforcement. If the law were to be enforced, which it never has been up to date, the "wets" would be deprived of the exercise of evading it successfully and would be obliged to concentrate on getting the law itself altered. Upon which we should have a real "showdown" between wet and dry sentiment and find out how the people themselves actually stand on the question of the Volstead act, a much-argued point.

Perhaps, on the whole, it is well that we have had our prohibition-enforcement difficulties early. If we profit by the lesson, we may be able to sit back with the question nearly solved so far as we are concerned, while other States are in the grip of the cyclone only faintly discernable on the furthest horizon at the present moment.

Rev. Dixon Completes Second Year's Work In Clearfield

Rev. John W. Dixon, the hard-working pastor of the Allen A. M. E. church, who is closing the second year of a most successful pastorate in Clearfield, is arranging to leave November 1st for the annual conference at Scranton, Pa. Whether or not this zealous laborer in the Lord's vineyard is returned to this charge depends entirely upon the choice of the Bishop, but those familiar with Rev. Dixon's work here will be anxious to see him returned, regardless of creed or color.

During the two years of his pastorate Rev. Dixon has been a power for good among the colored people of this community. He was earnestly and progressively at work at all times in both their spiritual and material interest and his labors have borne good fruit. As instancing the success of his spiritual ministrations it is only necessary to add that he had received thirty-six members into his church.

Rev. Dixon did not confine his spiritual efforts to the four walls of his church but evinced always a keen interest in the moral welfare of the colored people generally, whether they were affiliated with the church or not. He assisted in settling the difficulties which sometimes occurred and we have it upon the word of Judge Bell, District Attorney Arnold and Mayor Chase that he has been instrumental in saving both town and county many dollars in costs by reason of his activities and wise, pacific counsel to his people.

In one instance when four little colored orphans were left as a charge upon the County poor district at a cost of $40 per month, Rev. Dixon interested himself in the welfare of the children and secured for them a happy home apart from the bounty of the people of Clearfield county. In another instance a young girl who had strayed temporarily from the paths of rectitude was paroled by Judge Bell in the care of Rev. Dixon and was located by him in surroundings that will tend to have her grow up a good woman.

While rendering such a sterling account of his spiritual stewardship, Rev. Dixon was equally as successful in advancing the material interests of his congregation and shortly after locating here purchased a parsonage at a total cost of $2200. Of this amount $1100 has been paid off. The parsonage is a ten room double house and is not only a home for the pastor but returns a rental of $144 per year.

These results were made possible by the assistance given this small, struggling congregation by our people generally and especially by the pastors of the other churches and Rev. Dixon is very grateful for this help.

It is only fair to Rev. Dixon to say that he is $200 behind in his salary for 1921 and the people of Clearfield who can afford to do so should feel it their duty to help his little congregation to make up this amount before he leaves for conference. It is really a duty the community owes this good man and should not be forgotten.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Some of the School marries in the townships in this neighborhood are resigning their positions as teachers, to take up the much harder tasks of managing men, as there are no less than a half dozen marriages reported on the topics next month in pedagogic ranks.

The Presiding Elder of the M. E. church in this district filled the M. E. pulpit last Sunday and it is said his discourse was one of the most instructive and interesting ever listened to from that pulpit. There was an unusually large attendance.

Funny how a few idle words can raise such an excitement in a few minutes. Saturday evening it was reported that a man had been struck while running a Ford and instantly killed, the accident supposed to have happened on State Highway, near the Susquehanna House. More than fifty people hustled to the spot but found the report to be only a rumor and that no accident had occurred.

Curwensville people now realize that our home boys can put up a good game of foot ball for amateurs. The game with the Clymer Independents proved it. Every man on the Clymer squad weighed 25 pounds per man.

heavier than our boys, and more than that they had three or four Indiana State Normal school star players on their team yet with all their tactics and tricks could only break even with the lighter Curwensville boys.

It is said and on pretty good authority, too, that Curwensville is soon to have another wholesale and retail butcher shop and that it will be opened in a building in the central part of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Leib drove to Grove City Sunday and spent the day with their daughter Miss Gretchen Leib, who is taking a course at the College in that place. They also visited with Miss Jane Teats, who is also attending the same college.

A new son was born in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Addelman on Monday morning at an early hour. The family recently moved from Curwensville to a farm near Olanita.

Henry Heltzenrather, who sold out his restaurant last week to a man named Sloppy, from New Millport, is negotiating for the purchase of the John Kelly bowling and pool room, just across the street.

"Trapper" Watson, who has been living at Endicott, N. Y., for the past six years, is a town visitor and will remain in Curwensville for a month or so.

SURPRISE PARTY MARKS FAREWELL

A surprise birthday and farewell party was given in honor of Miss Twila Beers at her home on Weaver street. The house was beautifully decorated with jack o'lanterns, witches, and colored maple leaves. The guests were all masked. After games and music a delicious lunch was served by small boys dressed like clowns. All reported a fine time and wished her many happy returns of the day.

Miss Beers expects to leave soon for Williamsport where she will enter Business College.

FRENCH COMEDY WITH AMERICAN HUMOR AT DRIGGS

It is generally conceded that the author of "Not Tonight Josephine" which is to be presented at the Driggs Theatre tonight has written one of the best French musical farces comedies now touring the country. "Not Tonight Josephine" presents the very essence of a French flavor with American humor. As a matter of fact it is one of those extremely funny farces that provoke real breath bereaving mirth. That sort that makes you throw your head back until it rests on the back of your chair and laugh to your heart's content. "Not Tonight Josephine" is a combination of unusual humor, classic musical numbers and novel dancing together with a bunch of beautiful girls displaying a gorgeous array of fascinating lingerie, and the latest model of 1921 Parisian gowns. Seat sale opens.

No Barrier Can Stop Love!

Her love and goodness had been the pinions on which his genius soared. When tragedy came, and the temptress beckoned, when all that was finest in him seemed dead, something held him back from shameful orgies, something roused him from his drunken lethargy, something reawakened ambition and manhood in him.

It was her love, more real and vital than the air he breathed, surrounding him, bracing him, reassuring him, comforting him when he thought all comfort had fled with her.

A Skilled Hand Needs The Aid Of Good Eyes

Good work needs good eyesight because, as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a man is no stronger than his weakest faculty. And now when the quality of a man's work will play such an important part in the determination of his income you owe it to yourself to keep your faculties alert keen—fit for the competition of industry.

BREAD!

It's the only food for breakfast.

When you get up with "that hungry feeling" eat several slices of bread plain or toasted with your morning cup of coffee.

Try it with jam or jelly in preference to other foods that cost more and do not contain half the amount of nourishment.

If You'll Drink More Milk You'll Feel Much Better

Milk, Nature's first food, has in it all the nutritive elements that you'll find in several other foods combined. Just now, when your kiddies are down to the grind of school, they'll get along better on a food like milk than they will on anything else they may eat.

Include milk in every menu.

Oiled Axles Stop Friction.

Wheels with ordinary axles actually run on films of oil. When the axle is placed under the microscope its surface which to the eye is smooth, really is covered with depressions and bumps. So, too, with the inside of the hub of the wheel. If the wheel were allowed to run without oil the bumps on the axle and on the hub would rub together and cause friction. This would cause the axle and hub to become heated and expand and stick.
